PACIFIC UNITY FOR TRADE EXPANSION CONVENTION SLOGAN

Record Registration for Pacific Foreign Trade Council
Opening To-morrow at the Empress Hotel Brings World Trade Leaders to City for Three Days; Delegates of Two Countries Co-operate for Whole of the Pacific Coast

Confidence that this year's convention of the Pacific Foreign Trade Council opening to-morrow at the Empress Hotel will be the most memorable since it was organized in 1921 was expressed to-day by Edward F.
Kemmer, secretary of the council, who arrived in Victoria yesterday and is now busy arranging for the executive administration. When the registrations which are arriving by every mail are all in he estimates there will be 600 delegates on the list, making the most representative gathering of financiers and industrialists that has ever assembled on the Pacific Coast.

CANADA INTERESTED
With Canadian interests well represented at the first convention ever held outside the United States the convention assumes a broader viewpoint in its relation to Pacific trade than any other convention, and this will be emphasized by the fact that leading Canadian business men are now on the coast attending the Canadian Chamber of Commerce convention and many will leave Vancouver tonight for the convention here.

"The convention in Victoria will further solidify the bond between Canada and the U.S. ports and districts on the Pacific Coast," said Mr. Krem-mer, who conceived the idea of the Pacific Foreign Trade Council. "The slogan 'Pacific Unity for World Trade Expansion' has become the guiding rule of the council which has now enrolled under its banner leading financial, industrial and commercial factors as well as those which are more specifically shipping or exporting and importing concerns."

ponent of Pacific foreign trade and

AIRPORT PLANS ARE MADE IN VANCOUVER

City's Attention Directed to Lack by Lindbergh's Visit to Seattle

Vancouver, Sept. 14.—The sole reason Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh did not accept Vancouver's invitation to come here on his tour was that there was no airport here for land machines, he told Mayor Louis D. Taylor of this city in Seattle yesterday, the mayor said on his arrival back to-day.
Referring to Seattle's proposal to acquire 400 acres for a great landing field, Mayor Taylor said Vancouver should not be behind in this development. He proposed to take up the question with public men and prominent citizens without delay.

CANADA PUTS DUMPING DUTY ON IMPORTED APPLES

Ottawa, Sept. 14.—Imported apples have been declared liable to a dumping duty. A ruling issued by the Revenue Department to-day holds that "apples are to be considered as of a class or kind produced in Canada until otherwise ordered."
This means that a special, or dumping duty, in addition to the regular duty, will be applied to imported apples.
The dumping duty will be the difference between the appraised value and the purchase price, but not exceeding fifteen per cent of the appraised value.

MINING PARTY REACHES CITY AND TURN OF TOUR

The most notable world-wide party of mining men ever gathered together arrived in Victoria this afternoon as members of the Empire Mining and Metallurgical Congress.
The party, 310 strong, is representative of the mining industry in every part of the British Empire and the United States. There are delegates from twenty other countries.
At the head of the official welcoming party Premier J. D. MacLean and Mayor J. Carl Peck, who hosted the Princess Alice as she docked at 3:30
this afternoon. With them were C. F.
Hill, chairman of the committee; H.
J. Scott, of the Canadian Explorers;
C. F. W. Schwenger, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Robert Musgrave and Capt. J. W. Troup, superintendent of the C.P.R. Coast Steamship Service. In a short programme of speeches and greetings, they welcomed the party to the city which marked the turning point of their tour across Canada.

Introductions were made by J. D.
MacLean, Provincial Minister of British Columbia, who has been with the party since it entered British Columbia.

Members of the party went to the Empress Hotel, where reservations had been made for them. Later some went out to golf at Oak Bay, while most of them went to Government House, where Lieutenant-Governor Randolph Bruce held a garden party and reception for them.

To-night there will be a dance for the party at the Empress Hotel.
Robert Dunn, Deputy Minister of Mining and H. Pearson, of the B.C.
Department of Mines, were also at the dock and at the hotel to greet the visitors. Mr. Pearson opened an information bureau in the Victoria Hotel
for the benefit of the visitors.

SAW B.C. MINES
The party, which is decidedly cosmopolitan in aspect, is one of two parties which attended the second Triennial Congress at Montreal recently. The members who came here traveled West on a special train and then on a train of observation cars through the Similkameen Valley in order to get a good look at the resolving mountains there. At Copper Mountain they rode in cable cars and showed interest in the system by which 4,000 tons of ore are transported daily to Alamy.

The special train arrived in Vancouver at 8:30 this morning from Princeton, where a dinner was tendered

Mr. Rowell's submissions were as follows:
"The evidence discloses that Checkik and Habshtich procured the incorporation of the Prairie Drug Company
as a permit from the Saskatchewan Government, under the Saskatchewan liquor law, to store liquor for sale for medicinal, scientific and other non-beverage purposes, with the fraudulent intent of using the charter and the permit to secure a bond for storage of liquor in bond for sale for beverage purposes."

WHOLESALE BUSINESS
"That they carried on a wholesale liquor business at Regina and other border towns in Saskatchewan in violation of the law, and secured immunity from prosecution in so doing. In particular, they:
"1. Compound, labelled and sold liquors on a wholesale scale without a license, and contrary to the provisions of the Excise Act.
"2. Carried on their business in violation of the provisions of the Food and Drug Act, and the regulations made thereunder.
"3. Forged or falsely applied trade marks to their goods or applied false descriptions to such goods, contrary to the Criminal Code."

Winnipeg Has Unusually Warm Wave; Frost Predicted in Saskatchewan

Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—The prairie region to-day is passing through a wave of freak weather, varying from a light snowfall in the Edmonton district of Alberta, to scorching heat in Southern Manitoba, while Saskatchewan experienced a taste of both extremes.
Heavy rains continued over a wide area of the prairies to-day and harvesting has been stopped, with little prospect of resumption for two or three days. Warm temperatures and drying winds will be required to put the drenched grain in condition for the binders and separators.

SNOW IN EDMONTON
Intermittent rain during the last thirty-six hours in the Edmonton district developed into light snow flurries early to-day and there was a distinct touch of frost in the air. The mercury sank to thirty-four, two degrees above freezing, during the night.
In contrast residents of the Winnipeg district endured the warmest night of the year, with the lowest reading during the night, seventy-five. The temperature reached eighty-nine in the shade yesterday in Winnipeg and soared to ninety-two at Emerson, Manitoba.

MOVING EASTWARD
The forecast indicates the disturbance is rapidly moving eastward.
Frost is in prospect for Alberta and western Saskatchewan to-night, with showers and cooler weather in Manitoba.

TARIFF CHANGES
IN NEW ZEALAND
Dominion Encourages Empire
Movie Production; Lumber
Duties Increased

Auckland, N.Z., Sept. 14.—A determination to foster British films at the expense of the United States product is expressed in the revised New Zealand tariff, under which the general duty of a penny a foot is increased to threepence in the case of United States films, and decreased to nothing in the case of British films.
The revised tariff also increases the preference on other British goods.
Most of the changes are upward in the general scale, ranging from 5 to 25 per cent.
The new rate on dressed lumber is 75 to a hundred feet, as compared with four to shillings formerly.
The rate on rough sawn lumber is raised from two to five shillings a hundred feet.
Increased preference is granted to motor cars of British manufacture.
The revenue lost as a result of reduced duties on household necessities is estimated at £180,000 annually.

WRECKAGE FOUND IS NOT FROM ONE OF
ATLANTIC PLANES

London, Sept. 14.—British Air Ministry experts who have examined the wreckage of an aeroplane found several days ago at New Quay, on the Fennel coast, are under the impression it is not that of any of the missing transatlantic planes, says a dispatch from New Quay to The London Evening News.

man, plan a flight from Japan to the Midway Islands, 2,400 miles, as their

PLAN FOR MOUNTAIN ROAD SURVEY EARLY IN SPRING OF 1928

Ottawa Unwilling to Proceed
With Revelstoke-Golden
Work Until Next Year

Surveys for the Revelstoke-Golden Highway, to provide a new trans-provincial route to Alberta, will get under way next spring through cooperation between the Federal and Provincial Governments, it is anticipated at the Parliament Buildings.

Latest advice from Ottawa indicates that the Dominion authorities are not ready to proceed with the survey this year, as originally proposed. Premier MacLean telegraphed to the national capital urging that the surveys should be conducted this season, but federal officials explained that they have not men or equipment available for an immediate start of the work.

As snow will soon be flying in the mountains it is felt that the formidable engineering task of locating the road should not be undertaken until spring. The Provincial authorities are confident the Federal Government will arrange to co-operate with them in pushing the work ahead then. Both governments are concerned as the proposed road would run through Federal park land as well as provincial territory.

MR. OLIVER'S VIEWS
Commissioner Frank Oliver, third member of the board which conducted the inquiry, disagreed with the majority report.

Mr. Oliver finds that the "out of pocket" cost of transportation may be said to be $6.50 a ton. The finding of $6.50 a ton is a blanket rate designed to cover all Ontario points and points in Quebec within 100 rail miles from Ottawa and points on the National Transcontinental, and branches in Northern Quebec eastward to and including La Tuque. A rate of $6.75 is recommended for those parts of Quebec not covered by the $6.50 blanket rate, the $6.75 rate to extend as far eastward as, and including, Lewis and Diamond Junction.

With regard to the inclusive cost and the inclusive cost plus profit, Mr. Oliver declares himself unable to draw definite conclusions from the evidence submitted.

PUBLICATION OF THE REPORT
Publication of the report was made by Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways, who, when questioned in regard to the intentions of the Government regarding the findings, stated
the Government had only just received the report and had not had time to give the matter consideration.

VANCOUVER MAN KILLED
Vancouver, Sept. 14.—Robert Stuart, aged sixty-four, employed as a grain trimmer on the waterfront here, was instantly killed to-day when he stepped in front of a Canadian Pacific Railway train at the foot of Dunlevy Avenue.

PHILIP PAYNE
managing editor of The New York Daily Mirror, was one of the three air voyagers who lost their lives
when the Haine-Rome monoplane Old Glory fell into the ocean 500 miles east of Newfoundland. Wreckage of the plane has been picked up by the Canadian Government steamer Kyle and will shortly be brought to port. The crew of the Kyle was sent by Canadian officials to search on a request from The Daily Mirror. Besides Payne, those aboard the Old Glory were Lloyd Bertand and James D. Hill, co-pilots.

MANY DEATHS IN GREAT STORM IN SOUTHERN JAPAN

Six Hundred on Kishu Island Known to Have Lost Lives and Several Thousand Are Missing; Tens of Thousands Homeless; Scenes of Desolation in Areas
Swept by Wind and Great Tidal Waves

London, Sept. 14.—The Exchange Telegraph's Tokyo correspondent says official reports from various prefecture headquarters throughout the island of Kishu, Japan, tell a tale of the devastation of coast villages during the typhoon,
tidal waves and floods yesterday,
which, while not unparalleled, is nevertheless catastrophic, involving the deaths of 600 persons.
Five thousand homes were swept away by the inundation, while reports of damage to the rice fields received in Tokio from Nagasaki has already sent the rice market soaring.
The entire loss of life can not be fairly estimated at present, the dispatch says, but it is known there are several thousand missing and tens of thousands homeless.

Tokio, Sept. 14.—Four hundred persons lost their lives, 2,500 were injured and 700 homes were destroyed in the prefecture of Kumamoto on the island of Kishu, during the great typhoon and tidal wave yesterday, reports to the Japanese Home Office stated today.

In Fukuoka, Nagasaki and Kanagawa
prefectures there were few casualties,
but numerous homes were damaged.
The typhoon struck Tokio this morning. Several thousand houses in the low-lying sections were flooded.
Thirty children were injured when the roof of a schoolhouse was blown off.
The western part of Kishu Island, around Ariake Bay, appears to have suffered most.

WAVE CAUSED LOSSES
Police at Kumamoto estimate 270 perished at Kojima Machi, where a terrible tidal wave swept in, destroying about 1,000 houses and destroying them.

At Yanushiro the tidal wave was washed hundreds of homes from their foundations. The inhabitants climbed to the roofs, crying for help.

Otsu, Japan, Sept. 14.—Aero-plane pilots who flew over the typhoon devastated areas of Kishu Island returned to-day with photographs showing the scenes of desolation.

One report estimates the total damage at 20,000,000 yen (about $10,000,000), including the loss of large areas of agricultural land, which is now under the sea owing to the tidal waves.

A resident of one of the coastal villages, where many perished, said:
"At 1 o'clock in the morning in the middle of the raging typhoon, the suddenly rose mountain high. I had barely time to climb a tree on the embankment with my wife and children. Immediately afterward, a terrible wave was torn away from me."
More than thirty other villages of the same place were swallowed up by the raging waves.

The tidal wave was accompanied by a terrific gale and torrential rain.

Vancouver, Sept. 14.—"Development of a national spirit, especially toward the French-Canadians, is urgently needed in the Dominion," James H. Beatty of Victoria declared at a Rotary luncheon here yesterday in reviewing the message delivered at the Ottawa convention.

"We should learn to appreciate our friends in Quebec, what they did in 1776 and 1812, their art and literature," he continued. "We should urge the teaching of French in our schools and learn it. By urging these things Rotary may do a great deal to smooth away the misunderstandings between the French-speaking and other Canadians."

Cheminus, Sept. 14.—Mrs. Peter Wylie and Miss Mary Wylie have returned home from a very pleasant holiday spent in Vancouver.

Mrs. Thomas Gamble has left for her home in California, after being the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Dobinson, Cheminus.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Charters and their daughter, Miss Diana Charters, left on Sunday for England, where they will make their home with Mr. Charters's mother.

Miss Alice Dyke has entered the Royal Jubilee Hospital, Victoria, as a probationer.

The remains of the late Charles Herbert Beresford Burketts were shipped to Vancouver to be cremated. The ashes were sent back to Cheminus and on Sunday afternoon the Rev. Basil Spurling held a service at Crofton and scattered the ashes in the sea.

WORKMAN LOST LIFE

Regina, Sept. 14.—George Brown, an employee of Western Implements Limited, was almost instantly killed here yesterday while assisting in the unloading of a car of steel pipe.

A man whose daughter had just been united to the husband of her choice looked a little sad. "I tell you," he said to one of the wedding guests, a man of his own age, and himself the father of a number of unmarried girls, "it is a solemn thing for us when our daughters marry and go away." The guest assented, not altogether heartily. "I suppose it is," he conceded, "but I tell you, it is more solemn when they don't!"

IS CONVINCED THAT HUSKY IS GREATEST MEDICINE ON EARTH

Chambers Street Woman Says She Never Found Anything So Fine for Relieving Indigestion, Gas, Stomach Trouble and a Run-down Condition

After giving Husky, the herb preparation distributed by the MacFarlane Drug Company, a thorough trial, Mrs. E. Elismore, 2127 Chambers Street, this city, is convinced that Husky is the greatest medicine in the world. She has been convinced of Husky's merit in a most pleasant way, and through a desire to help others is making a public statement telling how Husky helped her more than anything. She says: "I suffered severely from indigestion for years, and naturally I was always on the lookout for something to relieve me. I tried many medicines and treatments, but nothing ever helped very much. It looked like I was going to keep on suffering with that terrible distress after meals. I actually suffered agony at times from gas in my stomach. I was very careful about what I ate and most of the time I didn't feel like eating anything."

MRS. LOTTIE YOUNG
Here is another woman who says that Husky is the best medicine she ever found, that it gave her the most effective relief from kidney trouble, nervousness and a weakened condition.

"Husky, the wonderful preparation I am now using, is giving me real relief at last. It is the greatest medicine in the world and I want to tell sufferers that nothing else ever helped me as much. I feel sure that many others will be glad to know that Husky gives this relief."

Many others do know about Husky, and hundreds in Victoria are enjoying new health through its use, as Husky relieves those common ailments resulting from stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders, such as headaches, dizziness, indigestion, gas and sour stomach, constipation, rheumatic pains, nervousness, unsteady sleep and weak, tired feelings.

LEADERS OF TRADE CHOOSE A. M. DOLLAR AS THEIR PRESIDENT

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

Reflecting opinions expressed during the course of the convention, a number of resolutions submitted at the suggestion of Canada were unanimously passed by the chamber at its final business gathering to-day. Other resolutions submitted, requiring consideration of considerable date, were referred to the executive, which will take a referendum vote of the member boards upon them.

The resolutions which were passed by the delegates included:

That the actions of the Vancouver Board of Trade in recommending to the Federal Government the enactment of a carriage of goods act be fully endorsed.

SHIPPING ACTS

That the Federal Government be urged to seek a conference with other governments in the Empire for the securing of a balanced allocation of shipping laws.

That the Federal Government be asked to establish natural resources research laboratories at Ottawa and the completion of the Trans-Canada Highway be recommended to Ottawa and that the Federal Government be asked to continue the policy of securing a balanced allocation of shipping laws.

TAX REDUCTION

That the income taxes be further reduced, and that duplication of taxation be eliminated.

That an immigration policy which will encourage immigration from Great Britain and Ireland, the United States and preferred European countries be vigorously pursued, and that a conference be held by the Department of Immigration and Colonization with representatives of agriculture and industry with a view to securing a balanced allocation of immigrants throughout the country.

SURVEY OF RESOURCES

That a national survey of natural resources be undertaken by Ottawa. That the Federal Government be asked to adopt the Dominion Commission's report recommending a widening of the powers of the Railway Commission.

TO KEEP TALENT IN CANADA

That every effort be directed towards securing the employment of graduates from Canadian universities in Canada. That the fullest possible support be given to the Federal Government in any efforts it may undertake to stop the unwarranted diversion of the waters of the Great Lakes by the city of Chicago.

The delegates also commended to the various boards of trade throughout Canada the creation of young men's sections.

SELECTIVE IMMIGRATION

Discussing immigration, C. O. Smith, Calgary, declared Canada was entering upon a new period of prosperity and he looked for an energetic endeavor on the part of the Federal Government to encourage immigration. He was of the opinion, however, that the various provinces should take a more prominent part in the selection of immigrants suitable for their needs, should be selective, but not unduly restrictive.

Immigration, he said, was given men who had been sent to farm work from Great Britain that were totally unsuited for such labor, while red tape had prevented others who might be easily assimilated from entering Canada.

PREMIER SPEAKS

Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta reached Vancouver this morning and attended the final session of the convention. This evening he will be the principal speaker at the banquet to be held at the Empress Hotel.

Premier Brownlee, on being introduced to the convention, declared he was so impressed with the unification of Canadian interests that although he had but recently returned from Great Britain, he had hurried here in the hope that he might hear some of the discussions and thereby lend encouragement to the movement in Alberta.

LIQUOR INQUIRY LEADS TO MOVES FOR PROSECUTION

"B. Forged and used United States revenue stamps and forged and used United States and Scotch liquor labels on goods bottled by them."

"C. Misdemeanors against Officer Knowles of the customs preventive service with a view to securing his dismissal, and subsequently in cooperation with other interested persons his removal from active work."

DOUBLE SET OF BOOKS

"7. Kept a double set of books and false accounts for the purpose of deceiving the Government as to the extent of their operations and their income."

"Their cash receipts for sales from July, 1920, to December, 1921, were over $2,200,000, and their profits must have been very large."

"The matters relating to compounding and using fraudulent labels were brought to the attention of the Department of Customs and Excise, but prosecutions were not instituted."

ACTIONS SUGGESTED

The recommendations are:

1. That the evidence and exhibits showing the violations of the Criminal Code, of the Excise Act and of the Food and Drug Act be submitted to the Department of Justice in order that prosecutions may be instituted against the parties who, upon the evidence now on file, appear to have violated the law.
2. That the evidence and exhibits relating to business tax and income tax be submitted to the Department of Revenue for review in the light of the facts disclosed in the evidence and exhibits.

Ottawa, Sept. 14.—Sir Thomas White, Minister of Finance during the Great War, will attend the Conservative National Convention in Winnipeg next month.

Announcement to this effect was made last night by Major-General A. D. McLean, chairman of the national committee preparing for the meeting.

Sir Thomas has also accepted the invitation of the committee to address the convention on national issues.

COSGRAVE APPEALS TO IRISH ELECTORS

Dublin, Sept. 14.—President Cosgrave, head of the Irish Free State Government, in a statement handed out last night, urges the people to give a clear decision at the general election on Thursday. He asks for an honest decision upon the one real issue, maintenance of the Anglo-Irish Treaty.

The Government's opponents had stood in the past, he said, for rejection of Free State's freedom, solely because it was not framed by themselves. They had done their utmost to wreck it.

"What Valera hints one day," added President Cosgrave, "his lieutenants deny the next. Those who are misguided enough to support them are condemning their country at the best to helpless uncertainty, and at the worst to anarchy and confusion for years to come."

NEWS AWAITED FROM STORM-LASHED WEST COAST OF MEXICO

SHIPS MISSING

Shipping losses along the coast will not be known definitely for many days. Two ships of the Dominion Line, the Jalisco and the Navajo, were reported missing, and there were fears for the safety of the fishing fleet which put out from Victoria. Dominion Government officials were inclined to believe, however, that the fishing craft might have reached safety at some points on the peninsula.

Latest reports from Mazatlan, a city of 30,000, were that it had escaped great property damage. One death was reported, a child having been swept over the sea wall.

Yaouras, a port of Sonora, was said to have been hard hit by the storm, with several causeways and piers swept away and the customs house damaged.

STREETS FLOODED

In Guaymas streets were flooded and there was some damage due to high winds. No loss of life was reported in that vicinity.

The storm apparently originated near Mazatlan, a city of 30,000, and extended across the isthmus to the State of Vera Cruz, on the Gulf of Mexico. It swept west coast states of Chiapas, Oaxaca, Guerrero, Michoacan, Colima, Jalisco, Nayarit, Sinaloa and Sonora.

Guaymas, Sonora, northernmost point of the storm area, is about 200 miles from the United States border.

Ramsay MacDonald suggests Empire Geneva Discussion

London, Sept. 14.—In a statement to The London Daily Herald, Labor organ, Right Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader, criticizes a recent Chamberlain's version of the attitude of the Dominions toward the Geneva Protocol as inaccurate, and refers to the speech of Senator Dandurand of Canada at Geneva in support of his contention.

He makes two suggestions: First, that a commission of the League Food and Agriculture, and second, that there should be an Empire discussion of the internal administration of the Empire in relation to protocol obligations. He believes the problem much simpler than appears on the surface, and that Senator Dandurand's speech gives strong support to this view.

EXCELLO FURNITURE

Manchester, Eng. Sept. 14.—Victim of his own scientific zeal, Dr. Sidney Fox, a British and American reputation, was found dead in his laboratory here last night. The widow reported the death of her husband, a man with a mask over the face before a machine which administered gas mixtures.

It had been Dr. Wilson's great ambition to obtain and prolong the analgesic state, which is obtained momentarily when a person under an anesthetic loses feeling yet retains consciousness. Colleagues believe he met death experimenting on himself to discover the actual effects of an anesthetic, which it was his conviction was the only way to obtain essential data.

HOPES STILL HELD FOR MISSING FLIERS

Views of Families of Men of Old Glory Party Not Supported by Fishermen

New York, Sept. 14.—With wreckage of the Maine-Borne monoplane Old Glory aboard the steamer Kyle, which found the fragments of the 600 miles east-northeast of the tip of Newfoundland, Mrs. Lloyd Bertaud and Mrs. Philip Payne, wives of two of the three missing Old Glory voyagers, and Mrs. Florence Callaghan, Bertaud's mother, were kept in constant touch with developments to-day. They refused to abandon hope for the safety of Payne, Bertaud and J. D. Hill, co-pilot of the plane. They clung to the belief the men might have been picked up by a fishing vessel equipped with no radio, even though veterans who know those waters pointed out that the place where the wreckage was reported found was far to the north of the fishing banks.

REWARD QUESTION

A reward of $25,000 offered by William B. Hearst for the finding of the plane or its crew still stands. It was said to-day by an official of The New York Daily Mirror, of which Payne was managing editor, but it has not been decided whether payment will be made to the crew of the steamship Kyle.

The Kyle is a Canadian Government vessel sent out to search at the request of The Mirror.

Fonck Tests His Transatlantic Plane

Curtis Field, N.Y. Sept. 14.—Capt. Rene Fonck, French ace, put his giant Sikorsky biplane, Ville de Paris, through a load test yesterday, explaining to reporters that he was continuing with his plans to make a non-stop flight to Paris pending a definite decision on the flight, which he expects to make in two or three days.

Fonck said he was not contemplating entering the non-stop New York-Spokane National Air Derby next week, as had been reported.

In its load test flight, yesterday the Ville de Paris carried 14,000. Fonck said the test was satisfactory.

GEORGE A. BELL DIED IN REGINA

Regina, Sept. 14.—George A. Bell, Provincial Treasurer of Saskatchewan from 1912 to 1917, died here yesterday, aged seventy-one, a victim of diabetes.

He started life as a blacksmith and practiced that occupation both in Ontario, where he was born, and in Saskatchewan, where he came at the age of twenty-four.

Saskatchewan probably knew him best as chairman of the Local Government Board from 1918 to last year, when he retired.

"It's a great pleasure to be alone, especially when your sweetheart is wild," remarked a reflective Irishman. "Ah," said a sweet Kerry maid to her lover, "if you were me, Patsy, and I were you, I would be married long ago!"

"Do you dream of me, Terence?" asked a girl of her young man. "Dream of you, darling? Why, I can't get any sleep for dreaming of you!"

OUR MINING VISITORS

VICTORIA IS PLEASED TO WELCOME the delegates who have been attending the second triennial Mining and Metallurgical Congress of the Empire in Montreal and Ottawa. It is fitting that this gathering should have been held in Canada this year because this Dominion recently has attracted the attention of mining men the world over. It has made greater progress in mineral production than any other country in the last quarter of a century, the value of our output having grown from $65,000,000 to $241,000,000 in that period of time. Last year's record, incidentally, was only $13,000,000 above the previous high record of 1920; but that increase, it should be noted, was made in spite of the fact that the average of metal prices was thirty-five per cent. higher in 1920 than in 1926.

Of special interest to the delegates no doubt are the many possibilities which the mining industry of Canada presents; but no development can take place without the investment of considerable capital, and the fact that fifty-four per cent. of the money put into Canadian mines has been found by the Canadian people may be regarded as ample proof of their knowledge of, and confidence in, the wealth of their natural resources. Our neighbors to the South of the line, of course, have been quick to seize many opportunities in the mining field and have found it profitable to do so.

Two views were advanced in the East why British money has not flowed in larger amounts to Canada. Sir Robert Horne attributed it to lack of funds. Sir Thomas Holland said the reason was that "Canadian potentialities have not been well known." Whatever the cause may be, however, the present tour of so many prominent men interested in the mining industry ought to furnish valuable information as to our potentialities. Then, if British funds are available, there would seem to be no reason why they should not be put to work here and share some of the dividends now crossing the line.

THE FREE-STATE ELECTIONS

PRESIDENT COSGRAVE CONFINES himself pretty closely in his final election manifesto, to an appeal to the people of the Irish Free State to give an honest decision on the one issue—the maintenance of the Anglo-Irish Treaty—when they go to the polls to-morrow. He declares that the opponents of the Government have done their best to reject the freedom of the Free State solely because the instrument by which it was attained had not been fashioned by themselves. He adds that "what de Valera hints one day his lieutenants deny the next," reminding the people that "those who are misguided enough to support them are condemning their country at the best to helpless uncertainty, and at the worst to anarchy and confusion for years to come."

The standing of the various parties when the Dail Eireann was dissolved and the election called is no indication as to what distribution of power to-morrow's polling will determine. It will be recalled that the Government was sustained by the casting vote of the Speaker when the vote on Labor's no-confidence motion was taken. Since then, however, Government supporters have captured two seats, one in Dublin City and the other in Dublin County, vacant when dissolution took place, the Republican candidate in each case being overwhelmingly defeated. One of these vacancies was caused by the assassination of Mr. Kevin O'Higgins, Minister of Justice, a patriot whose memory is likely to be a potent factor in the Government's favor to-morrow.

The possibility, somewhat remote though it may be, of Mr. de Valera winning sufficient seats to enable him to form a government is not a pleasant one for the majority of the people of the Irish Free State. As Mr. Cosgrave points out in his final statement, helpless uncertainty is the best that could be looked for under a regime dominated by him, since one of his first acts under such circumstances no doubt would be an attempt to revise the Anglo-Irish Treaty in a way that neither would be acceptable to Great Britain nor to many in the Irish Free State. Mr. Cosgrave asks for a mandate that will permit him to get on with the country's business and a majority in the Dail large enough to give him the authority upon which good government depends. It obviously will be a bad move for the Free State if its electors do not give it to him.

AWAY OFF ON THE FACTS

THE MORNING PAPER TELLS US THAT the next general election in this Province will be an issue between what it calls a "political machine" and the people. It comes to this conclusion after a long and bitter editorial attack on the Government in which it charges it with pretty nearly everything it could think of. To put it briefly, it declares that the Administration has increased taxation by "expenditures far in excess of what should have been incurred in the provision of public works." It then goes on to say that this "is inevitably the case when friends of a government are awarded contracts, and, because they are friends, are allowed to exceed their own original estimates or the estimates of the public Works engineers."

It is easy to understand that the morning paper wishes to forget New Westminster; but it is not as easy to understand why it should employ a collection of vicious generalities to suggest to the electors of the Royal City that they did not understand what they were doing when they elected a representative to the Legislature who, according to that newspaper's view, will be answerable only to what it calls a "political machine." It is evident that The Colonist did not follow the campaign in New Westminster very closely or it would have noted that a reference was made from the platform by the Premier himself to the fact that even Mr. Welsh, the Conservative candidate whom he was assisting to defeat, recently was awarded a very substantial government contract for supplies. He got the business—supplies of groceries—because his price was the lowest quoted. If the morning paper desires information about other contracts, no doubt it could obtain it quite easily. Facts would serve it and the party which it supports much better than vague generalities based on inaccurate information.

OUR EXPORTS

SOME CONSERVATIVE NEWSPAPERS are trying to make a good deal of political capital out of the fact that the value of Canada's exports for the twelve months ending with July 31 was nearly $100,000,000 less than it was in the preceding year. But they seem to forget that certain fluctuations are bound to occur. The only way properly to study trade figures is to review a period of years and not base judgment on twelve months' turnover. Take the following table:

| Year Ended July | 1926-27 | 1925-26 |
|-----------------|----------------|---------|
| 1926-27 | $ 894,552,364 | |
| 1925-26 | 1,086,500,260 | |
| 1924-25 | 1,099,105,063 | |
| 1923-24 | 1,345,928,218 | |
| 1922-23 | 1,344,330,624 | |

The foregoing comparisons put a different complexion upon the situation. And even though this country's exports have shown a one-year decline, they still are the second highest since prices became stabilized after the war, and $151,000,000 higher than two years ago. Surely this can not be considered a serious state of affairs. The cause of the decrease, however, is worth study. This explains some of it:

| | 1926-27 | 1925-26 | Decrease |
|-----------------|---------------|--------------|--------------|
| Wheat | $ 18,210,330 | $ 2,769,246 | $14,440,884 |
| Flour | 401,306,827 | 348,237,878 | $53,068,949 |
| Butter | 73,716,797 | 61,418,837 | 12,297,960 |
| Cheese | 7,328,782 | 2,835,172 | 4,493,610 |
| Gold | 31,873,466 | 22,264,450 | 9,609,016 |
| Gold, six items | 18,081,797 | 6,760,519 | 11,321,278 |

This is not a complete analysis, of course, but it is illuminating. For exports of oats, wheat and flour depend upon crops, prices and grain in storage. The oat crop of 1926 was much smaller than that of 1925; the wheat crop also was smaller, and it is now known that the 1925 crop was considerably underestimated. Crops are bound to fluctuate and no government can control them. The non export of gold, by the way, is a source of gratification. It is being taken to the Ottawa mint instead.

But the thing to remember, as The Toronto Star reminds us, is that Canada's exports during the past year were the second highest of the post-war period. And if imports are also high it is because of the increasing demands of Canadian factories for raw and partly-manufactured materials, and the enhanced buying power of the Canadian consumer in a period of great prosperity.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

EDUCATIONISTS, NOT PACIFISTS
From The Toronto Mail and Empire

Some of the delegates attending the conference of the Federation of Education Associations have a very dwarfed conception of the service the leading spirits of this movement are seeking to render to humanity. . . . People who profess to be workers for educational reform may be altogether without the vision of the true leaders in the movement. Certainly those of them who make the meetings of this conference an opportunity for waging propaganda against some measures of military defence are thinking of something else than the regeneration of the world by educational reform.

MARITIME FISHERIES
From The Saint John Telegraph-Journal

The conservation and development of Maritime fisheries is to be investigated by a Royal Commission. . . . The fishery products of all Canada in 1926 were valued at nearly $48,000,000, of which $17,000,000 was credited to the Maritimes. Experts declare that the Maritime fisheries could yield $25,000,000 almost immediately and in a few years double or triple that figure. But it is alleged that present methods are destructive and that transportation is not available to develop the fresh fish market that is said to await our sea harvest. These are matters that the Commission will be called on to investigate.

JOBS FROM GEOGRAPHY

ROOSEVELT DAM, on the Salt River, in Arizona, is one of the greatest feats of the United States Reclamation Service. The structure of sandstone and cement was completed in 1910 at a cost of $9,000,000. The reservoir created by the dam is the largest artificial body of water in the world. Its capacity is sixty-one billion cubic feet—enough water to cover the State of Delaware in a foot of water.

Canadian Questions and Answers

THE FAMILY IN CANADA

Q.—How many families are there in Canada?
A.—The family unit is the basis of Canada's life and strength, and that means a nation of homes. According to a recent census there are: 2,001,512 homes in the Dominion. Of these 1,239,150, or 61.91 per cent. rented. The homes are about equally divided between rural and urban residents.

Mr. Hosie reviewed the club's work through the year, stating that its undertakings had met with success. His membership had reached a total of 340, and its cash balance in hand $365. Thirty new members were welcomed to the club.

In recognition of splendid services rendered to the club, Mrs. P. J. Jaffray was presented with an illuminated address by Mr. Hosie.

Mrs. A. G. Christie and ladies of the club had arranged refreshments for the occasion, the post of social convenor being again accepted by Mrs. Christie.

Miss Hosie and Mrs. G. C. Grant were delegated to carry on their flower services for members of the club, who are ill.

Pipe-major Cameron was re-elected club piper for another year, and H. W. Cochrane again chosen as club bard.

During the meeting Mr. Cochrane recited a number of appropriate verses.

A musical programme was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Firth played accompaniments, while Mrs. Wilson sang two Scottish ballads. Miss Watson rendered a delightful solo, and W. C. Fyfe and Beverly Fyfe made their first appearance before a Burns Club audience, and were warmly received.

Rev. William A. Guy, pastor of Oak Bay United Church, was yesterday afternoon elected president of the Victoria Presbytery of the United Church in succession to Rev. Dr. Sippell. Rev. R. W. Lee will succeed Rev. Dr. Wilson, retiring secretary.

The resignation and retirement from the Presbytery of Rev. Dr. W. W. W. after forty years of service, was received with much regret, tributes to his work being paid by Rev. W. A. Guy and Rev. Dr. George Wilson, Vancouver. Dr. Wilson and Rev. G. W. Dean also seized the occasion to extend a warm welcome to Rev. W. A. Guy in his appointment to the presidency of the Presbytery.

UNION COLLEGE OPENING

Rev. Dr. J. G. Brown's announcement that the new Union College would be open, ready to receive students on October 1, was received with gratification. He referred to the fine co-operative work which was being undertaken by Union College and the Anglican College at Point Grey, which had shown a friendly spirit in connection with the exchange of certain lecturers. Union College, it was explained, comprises Ryerson College, the former Methodist college, Westminster Hall, former Presbyterian college, and the former Congregational Church college. In addition to the classrooms the institution includes dormitories with accommodation for twenty resident students, gymnasium and dining-room. In spite of the fact that it is the biggest theological school ever opened in British Columbia.

HOME MISSIONS

Rev. J. P. Westman presented the home missions report, informing the meeting that by a rearrangement of the Up-Island work large sums had been saved to the Church; manes had been built at Union Bay and Banfield. Rev. George Wilson referred to the cosmopolitan character of the work, which embraces some fifteen nationalities.

The religious education committee presented a report through Rev. T. Keyworth. Among the year's efforts in this direction had been Summer camps for girls and boys. A conference on young people's work would take place in the near future in Victoria.

The Doughboys Again for France

In an armada of the mightiest vessels traversing the Atlantic, an army of 7,000 American legionnaires of the Great War have commenced the journey to France where at Paris in the presence of the greatest names of France, the ninth annual convention of the Legion will be held between September 19th and September 24th. Many of the vessels have left and are leaving from New York, Boston and New Orleans, but the first from Canada was the Canadian Pacific Steamer Montcalm on August 26th and this will be followed by sailings of Canadian Pacific steamers Montclair and Montclair, September 9 from Quebec. The photograph shows a group of the Legionnaires on board S.S. Montcalm. The bulk of the movement will fall around September 1-10. One hundred and fifty legionnaires sailed on the Montcalm and about 1200 others will sail on the Montclair and Montclair.

The men will take approximately four weeks for the trip, counting from the day of sailing to the return to port. Battle-field trips will be a feature of the journey. In the grand parade through the streets of Paris the men will for the first time in French history pass through the famous Arc de Triomphe built by Napoleon and will pay a tribute to the tomb of the "Unknown Soldier." Practically all the survivors of the French leaders of the great war will welcome the men, including six Marshals of France, and around forty generals. The President of the Republic will also be there to see General Pershing at the head of his men. Premier Poincaré, Aristide Briand, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Myron T. Herrick, U.S. Ambassador to France, and many other distinguished names will be present. It is no exaggeration to say that this convention will be the most stupendous transatlantic peace time movement in history.

EGYPTIAN JOURNALIST ATTRIBUTES COUNTRY'S PROSPERITY TO BRITISH

By FRANK STIER GOODWIN

"Friction between iron and wood leaves the iron," was the way Dr. T. Sarruf, editor of Al Mokattam, the largest Arabic newspaper in the world, published in Cairo, Egypt, recently described the English-Egyptian situation when I visited the old gentleman. He is seventy years old and for thirty years or more has been the "instructor" of public opinion in Cairo and the Levant.

"Yes, there is a lot of trouble between the British and the Nationalist Egyptians," he said, in answer to my question regarding the British-Egyptian relations.

"There is a large number of local politicians who believe that they would profit if the British were forced to leave. Some are honest in wanting to place the complete control of Egypt in the hands of natives and have a really patriotic motive for their policies and redoubtable benders over them, coherently at work."

The city editor, that all-important personage in the Egyptian press, is off by himself in a private room. The reporters (there are about ten) have their desks most conspicuously set up in the room, and come and go as they please. They have no typewriters, for the same reason that they cannot use linotypes.

Mokattam, an Arabic scientific monthly review, this magazine, published in Cairo along with Al Mokattam, has a circulation of about 4,000 throughout the Levant, 800 subscribers in the United States and more than 400 in Brazil and other South American countries, besides a scattered circulation over the rest of the world.

The plant where the two papers are published is in a large converted mansion. The house has been added to in the rear and it is here that the presses are located. There are three or four antiquated machines and one English type, with ducky Arabs in pantaloons and red turbans bending over them, coherently at work.

They do not use linotype machines because it is not possible to place enough Arabic letters. Therefore all the work is set up by hand, and there are hundreds of boxes of curly Arabic type, with ducky Arabs in pantaloons and red turbans bending over them, coherently at work.

The city editor, that all-important personage in the Egyptian press, is off by himself in a private room. The reporters (there are about ten) have their desks most conspicuously set up in the room, and come and go as they please. They have no typewriters, for the same reason that they cannot use linotypes.

and the copy, therefore, is all in long-hand.

Frederick Shouair, the grandson of Dr. Sarruf, who is doing regular reporting on Al Mokattam and "learning the game," told me that he is coming to the United States this fall to study newspaper work at one of the colleges. He then intends to work in a newspaper office in America for a time so as to "get the hang of it," as he said, for he is to take over the management of Al Mokattam and Al Mokattam when his grandfather retires.

International Boundary Survey

Almost every known method of survey has been made use of in the work of surveying the international boundary between Canada and the United States. In its length of 5,000 miles the boundary passes through country greatly varying in nature—through arms of the sea, through the great lakes, through rivers, lakes and forests, and over plains, snowfields, glaciers and mountains.

Distribution of Fish Fry

Over 50,000,000 whitefish fry were distributed from Gull Harbor hatchery, Lake Winnipeg, over a wide area extending as far as the River about 100 miles from the hatchery. This long transfer was made possible by virtue of a miniature hatchery set up on the Canadian Government steamer Bradbury. With the exception of last year, when 51,000,000 fry were planted out, this is the largest distribution since 1920 from Gull Harbor hatchery.

FLY, AND CURE THAT DEAFNESS, OR SIT IN THIS TINY ROOM

Washington, Sept. 14. — It isn't necessary to go up in an airplane to take the new low-pressure treatment for deafness.

Here in Washington, at the Bureau of Standards, a tiny room has been built that copies flying conditions exactly at 5,000 to 20,000 feet, and here all the thrills of nose dives and sudden breath-taking ascensions may be had.

The experiments still are purely in a formative stage. Its use originally it was built for testing aviation instruments, was suggested after certain aviators had reported relief from slight deafness after steep dives from high altitudes.

The altitude chamber—which, in effect, produces flying conditions in a laboratory—resembles a cylinder on end. Built of steel, it is 54 inches in diameter and 7½ feet high. In this snug enclosure, air pressure is manufactured to order, the force thus exerted on the tank being increased or decreased rapidly. For example, when the pressure within the chamber is equivalent to the upper air conditions at 5,000 feet approximately 21,000 pounds of pressure is exerted on the door of the chamber.

In the make-believe flights undertaken in the low-pressure chamber, when the air pump is turned off, the rate of deceleration of the imaginary aviator may be as rapid as 25,000 feet per minute. The maximum ceiling in "landing" even exceeds that experienced in actual flying conditions, since rarely does an aviator return to earth at a speed greater than 15,000 feet per minute. Instruments for regulating the air pressure are built within the chamber.

Here Are the New Books London Is Talking Of

Reuters Special to The Victoria Times

LONDON, (By Mail).—In his sparkling little collection of memories,

"Some People," Harold Nicholson confesses that he is embroidering with imagination and must for discretion be content with half-truths. With this hint that he has decorated his subject on—like the waves which heeded not the king's command to stop.

The policy of Al Mokattam is staunch support of the British and the government. Dr. Sarruf hastened to assure me.

"The English are more useful and less harmful than any of the other powers, we might say, putting it frankly," he continued, "and for that reason it behooves us to give them our support."

It seems that the British are not without opposition from the press of the country, however. I was told that there are papers in the pay of the French, Italians and Turkish, whose duty and policy it is to criticize the British at every turn. In the effort to align public opinion solidly against them.

In the opinion of Dr. Sarruf, Lord Cromer, former British High Commissioner in Egypt, put Egypt on its feet and paved the way for prosperity. So Dr. Sarruf has put his sheet at the disposal, practically, of the British. It is through this journal that the public is informed of the benefits of British control in Egypt.

"Besides," said Dr. Sarruf, "I am getting old, and I want to be left to pursue my work in peace."

The doctor settled down in his big, comfortable chair behind a desk piled high with papers, magazines and office work.

"Do you know, son," he said, "that Al Mokattam is the largest Arabic newspaper in the world? It has a circulation of 40,000. That is a large circulation for a paper published in a land of general illiteracy. It is written in classical Arabic, which, he assured me, is quite different from the spoken language. Arabic is the language of all the countries of the Levant."

"It is like mid-Victorian English compared with modern English," or something on the order of Latin compared with Italian," he said.

Both Dr. Nimr and Dr. Sarruf are Arabians. They were educated at private schools at home and abroad and at the American University of Beirut. Here, for a time, Dr. Sarruf was professor of physics, chemistry and mathematics, while Dr. Nimr taught chemistry and astronomy.

In 1876 the two men established Al

as member for an obscure Galway constituency, and at once became a loyal and valuable adherent of Parnell, then the leader of the Irish Party.

"I intend," writes Mr. O'Connor, "so far as possible to confine myself (in these memoirs) to the proceedings and personality of the House of Commons, referring to the conditions and events in Ireland herself so far as they influenced these proceedings."

The rich literary converts of Bowdler are again being drawn by the Marquis of Lansdowne for a book, "The Papers of William Petty," which he will publish with Constable. As Lord Kerry he edited "The Secret of the Coup d'Etat" and "The First Napoleon" from the same source, and the new book promises a like historical interest. It reveals the intellectual range of a very active mind in the Restoration period, for Sir William Petty's interests covered politics, religion, morals and medicine.

Some forty odd writers of to-day are parodied in "Parrot Pie," by W. Keen Seymour (W. K. S. of Punch). Archibald Marshall's "Simple Stories," some of which have also appeared in the same journal, will be ready at the same time, with George Morrow's illustrations.

Elkin Matthews announces another interesting reprint for the Rescue Series, which, as its name implies, is concerned to rescue worthy old books. The new volume is to be "The Semi-attached Couple," by the Hon. Emily Eden, who was a sister of Lord Auckland, a Vicereine of India, and a member of the High Whig circle of Boredom. The book does, for a rather higher strata of society, what Jane Austen's books did for the middle class people of her day, and there are many points of resemblance between the two writers. It seems that "The Semi-attached Couple" is often advertised for, and that has suggested the reprinting of it.

The second Forsyte Saga—of which the first volumes were "The White Monkey" and "The Silver Spoon"—closes with "Swan Song," which Mr. Galeworthy has just finished. After serialization it will be published by Heinemann, but that will not be until the Autumn of 1927. Werner Laurie are just publishing "Oil," a new novel by Mr. Upton Sinclair, from whom we have had no full length novel since "King Coal," in 1917. It is an epic picture of the history of the oil industry in which the activities and personality of oil magnates, labor

The chapter on Arkettal is also a friendly and appreciative study of the Marquis himself. Mr. Nicholson shows us Lord Curzon in a very sympathetic and charming light. In his plainly-furnished bedroom at Carlton House Terrace for example:

"My eyes wandered round the room in mute surprise. They returned finally to the figure in the bed. He was no longer looking at the documents, he was looking at me. 'You are observing,' he said, 'the simple squalor of my bedroom. I can assure you, however, that my wife's apartments are of the most unexampled magnificence.' And at this his shoulders shook with that infectious laughter of his, that rich eighteenth century amusement."

THE BOOK MARKET

At no period since the Great War, according to the testimony of publishers and booksellers, have English people spent more money on new books and new editions of old books, than they are spending to-day. The book market, therefore, may be said to have regained its old vitality and it is evident that the rising generation, however prone to other diversions, increasingly seeks reading. An illustration of the manner in which beautiful and expensive editions of great works will be to be found in the announcement by Basil Blackwell of Oxford, that a Proseart which he has done in eight volumes, was all taken up immediately by the publishers. The most popular novels at the moment are "Witch Wood," by Mr. John Buchan, M.P., "No Other Tiger," by Mr. A. E. W. Mason, and "The Undesigning Widow," by Dolf Wylie. Among more serious books, the Diary of Lady Frederick Cavendish still retains the interest of the public.

BOOKS AND WRITERS

It is probable that no more important and engrossing volumes will appear in 1927 than J. L. Garvin's long expected Life of Joseph Chamberlain and T. P. O'Connor's Reminiscences, alike by reason of their general interest and because of the world-wide reputation of their authors. Both these works will run as serials in leading British journals before they are published in book form. Mr. O'Connor's Reminiscences, which the first volume is now completed, are concerned with the Parliamentary history of the British Empire, beginning with the year 1860, when the then young and penniless journalist took his seat

Said Betty to Helen: "The Best Man Won!"

Hands across the tennis net, these—with sixteen-year-old Betty Nuthall (right) speaking for England, against twenty-one-year-old Helen Wills of California: "The best man won." Little Helen had just defeated Betty in the singles final of the National Women's Tennis Championships at Forest Hills, Long Island, thereby regaining the title she was forced to relinquish last year. The lower photo is of a flash of play during the Helen-Betty encounter. Betty's showing won her a lot of praise, in which Helen joined.

IRREPRESSIBLE CLARA BOW AT DOMINION IN LATEST STARRING FILM

Here's a new way to test the love of your sweetie. First, offer him a gift. Second, be sure he refuses to accept it. Third, mount your horse. Fourth, ride wildly to the edge of a cliff. Fifth, jump—and then—well the rest should be hard to imagine.

That's what Irrepressible Clara Bow does in her latest Paramount production "Hula," which plays at the Dominion Theatre to-day. Clive Brook, a young English engineer, acts coldly toward the daughter of his employer, an Hawaiian plantation owner. She

JOHNNY HINES FLIRTS WITH YELLOW PERIL IN PLAYHOUSE STORY

While filming his latest production, "All Aboard," for First National, Johnny Hines flirted fearlessly with the yellow peril when it came to choosing members of his cast. After looking through flounders "Who's Who" he turned right around and signed Sojin, the Chinese character actor, who was so terrifying in "The Thief of Bagdad" with Doug Fairbanks. Edna Murphy plays the leading feminine role in "All Aboard," which is at the Playhouse Theatre this week, and others figuring prominently in the hilarious action are Frank Hagney, James Leonard, Bull Montana, George Reed, Fred Kelsey, Buster Brodie, Eddie Dennis, Dot Farley and Babe London.

CHILD ACTOR STARS IN WIRE WALKING ACT AT COLISEUM

Another surprise is in store for the patrons of the Coliseum, as this week's bill is of unusual merit. The opening act is a wire-walking act, that is very cleverly performed by Baby Olar, and is something of a novelty, as there has not been an act of this kind here in a long time. Following this comes Ralph Maddison, the singing miner, who offers three popular numbers in a beautiful tenor voice. Next comes Harold Bechtel and Will Marshall in a comedy mind-reading act that is the big laugh of the show, and is sure to please the patrons. Then the closing act belongs to Baby Olar again, in an aerial trapeze act that is really remarkable, and shows how versatile this marvelous little girl really is.

On the screen, the mighty motion picture masterpiece created by Will Nigh, which took one solid half year to film, is shown. The photograph is "Notoriety" in eight reels and takes its theme from the true experiences of a young girl in a modern metropolis. The scene of the action starts in the tenement life of a hard-working laundress, who is the adopted mother of "Pigeon" Deering. Like many girls of her age, "Pigeon" dreams of being famous and of having her name in the papers and picture in the papers and being talked about by her friends. Her dream comes true one day when she happens to stage in front of a million eyes, when one of the guests at a brilliant reception is mysteriously shot.

CITIZEN OF WORLD IS DIRECTOR TO MENJOU IN CAPITOL PICTURE

Stepfather's Faith Helps Janet Gaynor to Win

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 14.—Her stepfather's faith and determination that she would make good made a real cinema star out of dainty Janet Gaynor.

The stepfather, whom Janet refers to affectionately as "Jonesy," wanted more than anything else to see the girl's name blazoned in electric lights.

SEES WISH REALIZED

"Jonesy" died about two months ago—but he had lived long enough to realize his greatest wish. He saw Janet's name in glowing letters in front of the Cathay Circle Theatre, here, where "Seventh Heaven" is playing.

When Janet moved to Hollywood with her family about three years ago, she wasn't greatly excited over the prospect of becoming an actress. While she was attending Polytechnic High School in San Francisco, she had worked nights as an usher in the Castro Theatre. She had enjoyed the figures upon the screen but never had thought about being one of them.

However, "Jonesy" was so sure that she was cut out for the movie cameras that she took a fling at it.

HIS CONFIDENCE HELPS

"My friends all tell me that I have reached the top but really I am just getting started. I don't even know yet if I can act. I didn't do any acting in 'Seventh Heaven'—I just lived the part. Why I didn't even have to think about my hands and feet. They took care of themselves."

Miss Gaynor's next big production will be "Sunrise," in which she is an entirely different character from the little "street urchin" of "Seventh Heaven."

Wife—Yes, we passed a resolution, Frank, pledging ourselves to help to ameliorate the crying evils of to-day. Husband—Then, for goodness sake, Ellen, go upstairs to the twins!

More than 8,000,000,000 square yards of woven goods are made in a year in this country.

Learns to Write Movie Yarns By Selling Them

CAREY WILSON

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 14.—Carey Wilson wanted to write stories for the screen—so he started out by selling stories that others wrote.

It is said that there is a training school for all lines of endeavor. Carey figured that selling films was the best way to learn how to write—because it taught him what the public wants. Apparently he was right, as he never has written a story that "flopped."

Wilson's rise has been one of the most rapid in cinemaland. His story might be reeled off as a "success" yarn to the point that it can't find the time in his life when it was just a poor struggling boy. Four years ago he was just a salesman, but even then he was eating quite regularly. Now he is producing his own stories, the latest being the screen version of "The Private Life of Helen of Troy."

"If the studios would send all of their writers out on the road to sell films for a year we would have very few bad pictures," Wilson says. "The fault of most poor movies is in the stories. And the stories aren't good because the writers don't know what exhibitors and fans want."

"A salesman makes personal friends with exhibitors in his territory. He learns what sort of pictures audiences in various sections respond to best and why. Those are the facts the scenarioist should know. Of course, films can't be made for one or two particular sections of the country. But by getting the reactions of people in different localities a person learns what general types of films will be universally popular."

"Every production made must have a selling point, that is a feature which will attract the public. Sometimes a star's name alone is all that is needed. But many pictures haven't an out-

CANADIAN V.C.'S WIDOW IN NEED

Pathetic Plight of Mrs. McKean Arouses Attention

London, Sept. 14.—The evening papers here give prominence to the pathetic plight of the young widow of Capt. George Borden McKean, who won the Victoria Cross while serving with the "Quebec Regiment" in the war. He was also the recipient of the Military Medal and Military Cross for heroic service. His widow is now advertising for a position in which she can maintain her eight-year-old daughter and herself. She says she is at present dependent on the assistance of her friends for a living. She says she has unsuccessfully applied to the British Legion, and the Canadian Government for help. Her husband went to Canada at the age of sixteen. He was a school teacher before the war.

ENLISTED AT EDMONTON
Montreal, Sept. 14.—Capt. George Borden McKean enlisted shortly after the commencement of the war, in Edmonton, as a private. On reaching England with the Western Battalion he was sent to France with reinforcements to the Fourteenth Battalion of Montreal.

In the Spring of 1917 he received his commission. In the big advance by the Canadians in August of 1918, Capt. McKean, singlehanded, cleaned up a German machine-gun post which was holding up his battalion's advance. A feat of daring which brought him the Victoria Cross.

Several months ago Capt. McKean was killed in an accident in a sawmill in England.

To Show Pictures Taken in Europe At Coming Lecture

J. H. Beatty, manager of the Sprott-Shaw School, will give an illustrated address before the Sons of Canada and Canadian Daughters' League on Thursday, September 15, at 8 p.m., at the Sprott-Shaw School, 731 View Street.

Mr. Beatty recently returned from a trip through Canada, the United States and Great Britain and some of the European countries, and will give a most interesting lecture, illustrated by moving pictures.

These pictures include the following: The King of Belgium going to Kursaal to open Rotary Convention, British Cemeteries and Memorials in Ypres Salient, British Memorials on the Somme Front, Big Dug-out at Courcellette, Vimy Ridge, Notre-Dame de Lorette, Fontainebleau, King George presenting the new constitution to the Prince of Wales and the King of Egypt driving down the Strand to attend a luncheon at the Guildhall. The big aeroplane show at London with over 200 machines, pictures around Belfast, icebergs in the Straits of Belle Isle.

The public is invited to attend. There will be no admission charged.

WOMEN'S CANADIAN CLUB NOMINATIONS

Members of the Women's Canadian Club are requested to note that, under the new constitution, no nominations for officers or executive for the coming year can be accepted after the meeting to be held on Tuesday, September 20.

Nominations should be in the hands of the committee, Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, Mrs. W. H. Gee or Mrs. S. J. Willis, before that day or may be handed in from the floor at the meeting, after which the list of nominees will be closed finally. Another clause in the new constitution provides that no officer or member of the executive committee may act in the same capacity for more than two consecutive years. There will be no speaker on Tuesday, but a special programme is being prepared, to include numbers by well-known artists.

Lady Bowlers Had Interesting Game

The ladies have always played a very important part in the social life of all bowling clubs, but in recent years they are proving themselves no mean performers on the green. In Victoria the ladies are now making excellent progress. Yesterday a friendly game at Beacon Hill between the Burnside and Victoria sections was much enjoyed.

A delightful tea was served by the Victoria ladies to their visitors and a very pleasant afternoon ended with cheers in the regular fashion of the men's club.

Following is the score in detail, which it is hoped will result in many more encounters between the two clubs:

Victoria—Mrs. Henry, Miss Macaulay, Mrs. Simmons, Mrs. Wright (skip), 6; Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Read, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Owens (skip), 12. Total, 18.

Fall Millinery Opening—Thursday, Friday and Saturday

A Full Display of the Authentic Styles for Autumn That Tells the Complete Story of the Fall and Winter Millinery Mode

For the opening we are presenting Millinery modes expressive of the authentic styles for Autumn, which will define the mode for many months to come.

These Hats represent only the significant creations of the most important houses, and tell the complete story of the Winter Millinery Mode.

Off-the-face Hats, and those cut away over one eye, are designed by almost every French milliner. The Felt Hat retains its popularity and is as smart as ever. Soleil Velours are seen in many of the new styles.

The new Millinery corresponds in shades to the costume, suit or coat. Black is perhaps the favorite. The blues are new, ranging from royal and King's blue to the deep cobalt and navy shades. Grey is making an appearance and the rosy tan and brown shades, with a reddish cast, are again important.

Small Nose Veils are the very newest note. Insets and incrustations are used as trimmings and cut crowns and brims give individual touches.

Evening Flowers were never so gorgeous as these we have on display at present. They are being shown in velvet, organdie, muslin, silk—in all the newest color tones—and add a delightful touch to any afternoon or evening hat.

RADIO BEACON ESTABLISHED

Automatic Device on Race Rocks Will Warn Vessels During Foggy Weather

The automatic radio beacon on Race Rocks, announcement of which was made some time ago, is now established and ready for operation, according to word received from A. Johnston, Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

The beacon will have a transmitting range of fifty miles, according to Mr. Johnston's advice. It will operate on a length of 1,000 metres, with a note frequency of 1,000 modulated C.W.

The characteristic signal of the beacon will be a series of groups, consisting of one dot and three dashes in succession for a period of fifteen seconds, followed by an interval of silence for one and one-half minutes, after which the note group will be resumed.

The beacon will be in operation during thick or foggy weather.

REPORTS WANTED

In order to test the power and capability of the beacon a request is made to masters of all vessels equipped to receive the signals to listen in when in the vicinity of Race Rocks and report to the Division Superintendent, B.C. Radio Service, Old Post Office Building, in this city, or to the Director of Radio, Department of Marine and Fisheries, at Ottawa.

The beacon will fill a long-felt need of mariners traveling to and from the Coast as well as to coastwise travelers.

In the vicinity of Race Rocks, near Bentinck Island, it is thought that a "silent zone" exists, where during foggy weather the sound of the fog horn on Race Rocks is inaudible. Several vessels have gone aground in this area during the last few years, and in practically every case there has been an attempt at explanation of this silent zone. It was through efforts of masters of some of these ships, combined with an investigation made by Mr. Johnston, that the beacon was secured.

PROPOSED FOR LARGER B.C. TRADE

R. S. O'Meara, Canadian Commissioner in Middle East, Visiting This Coast

Vancouver, Sept. 14.—Touring Canada to promote more exports to the "Middle East," Indo-China, Siam, Malay Peninsula, Straits Settlements and Java, Robert S. O'Meara, Canadian trade commissioner at Batavia, is in Vancouver to-day, having arrived last night from Toronto.

"British Columbia has excellent opportunities of developing a trade in fresh fruit, canned fish, vegetables and fruit, home products, maple flooring and certain manufactured goods," he said. "Poor direct transportation facilities, and lack of refrigerator service to the Middle East, are the greatest obstacles to more trade at the present time."

BIGGER SHARE POSSIBLE

"In 1926 the value of Canada exports exceeded $6,000,000, of which eighty per cent benefited Eastern Canada," he continued. "I believe British Columbia, by devoting more attention to its products in my district, could increase its share materially."

O'Meara will stay in this city ten days, making his headquarters with the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, where he will be prepared to interview any exporters interested in Middle West trade.

Born in Ontario, Mr. O'Meara lived many years in Victoria, graduating from McGill University, he was a commissioner in Calcutta and Capetown before he was assigned to Batavia.

U.S. Shippers After Trade Legislation

San Francisco, Sept. 14.—Legislation putting American shipping on a par with foreign ship operations will be sought at the next session of Congress through representatives of the Pacific-American Steamship Association of the Pacific, Captain Walter J. Peterson, manager of the local office of the association, announced yesterday. Permanent offices will be opened in Washington, D.C. within a few days, at the head of which will be James H. MacLafferty of Oakland, for several years assistant to secretary of the American Steamship Association of the Pacific.

Capt. Peterson stated, will be devoted to present, past and future legislation of the association.

Back from San Pedro with a good part of a cargo and about 100 passengers, the trans-Pacific liner President Jackson arrived here at 11:30 o'clock last night and discharging cargo here. The vessel is a large cargo and a capacity booking of passengers for discharge at Victoria.

MARINE NOTES

The Japanese freighter Yojin Maru arrived here at 10 o'clock this afternoon. She is a 2,000-ton vessel of Japanese origin. Having suffered injury to her coupling bolts on the voyage across the Pacific the vessel will be surveyed while in this port.

CANNERY LICENSES INVOLVED IN SUIT

No Authority For Licensing of Canneries by Federal Government, Defence Holds

Vancouver, Sept. 14.—On a case stated for appeal by Magistrate H. O. Alexander, who acquitted the accused in police court, A. B. Macdonald, E.C. Department, asked Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald in the Supreme Court here to find the Somerville Cannery Company limited guilty of the charge of operating a cannery at Seal Cove, Prince Rupert, without first obtaining a Federal license.

The right of the Federal authorities to license canneries is in issue for the first time in Canada. The case is a result of a power to enact Section 7-A of the Fisheries Act, which compelled a fish cannery operating for commercial purposes to take out an annual license from the Minister of Fisheries.

Giant Motorship Will Put Into Quarantine at 2 p.m. From Antipodes

Seventeen hours ahead of schedule from the Antipodes the R.M.S. Aorangi, Commander R. Crawford, will arrive at 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, according to word received by the local agents.

The Aorangi is bringing over 300 passengers from Australia, New Zealand, Fiji and Honolulu, and nearly 100 tons of mail. She will probably reach Pier 2, Rithet Docks, about 8:45 o'clock and will stay in this port until about 7 o'clock, sailing for Vancouver at that hour. She will sail again for the Antipodes next Wednesday evening.

Woman Swept From Deck of Furness Ship in Atlantic

Philadelphia, Sept. 14.—Mrs. C. H. Mumford, thirty, of Fair Acres Farm, near Hamilton, Ont., was swept overboard from the deck of the Furness liner London yesterday night, when the vessel was en route from England to this city.

The tragedy was revealed when the vessel docked here bringing a report of a stormy voyage and the widow and her three children.

Mr. Mumford, a former British army officer, was returning with his family from a tour of Europe when Mrs. Mumford, who had been on an upper deck of the vessel, was carried over the side by a huge wave.

NEW SERVICE ON ATLANTIC PLANNED

Combined Steamship-Aeroplane Service Is Project, Says New York Paper

New York, Sept. 14.—The New York Herald-Tribune says plans are nearly completed to launch an all-United States combined steamship-aeroplane service between Montauk Point, L.I., Plymouth, Eng., and Havre, France, with fast ocean liners that will make the crossing in four days.

The proposed line is to be incorporated as the New-York-London-Paris Steamship Company, and will operate a fleet of ten 30,000-ton liners. The ships, which will resemble United States naval destroyers, but about twice their size, will be driven at an average speed of 31½ knots, but will be capable of sustaining 25 knots. They will be about 800 feet long, with an 80-foot beam and a draft of 34 feet 9 inches.

The new liners, to be used exclusively for passengers, will carry 400 first-class, who will be accommodated in small cabins slightly larger than railway sleeping car drawing-rooms.

OUR SERIAL STORY

"The Wife & Co."

By LYLE HAMILTON

"I've prayed for somebody like him," she said, when finally she returned to the table. "How old is he?"

"Oh, fifty. I should judge," said Molly. "He's a dandy looking man."

"I don't care a rap for his looks," declared Mrs. Potter. "He can be three feet high and as fat as an open sinner for all I care, just so he can get me out of this damned rooming house! Oooh, how I hate to take roomers—girl roomers, that is."

"Why don't you take young fellows?" Brownell said.

"I had some once, filled the whole flat with 'em when I first started up. They didn't kick about the rent—I charged 'em a lot more, too, than I get from the girls. But they didn't pay the rent. When I'd raise the dinkens they'd laugh at me, and one fellow—I told him I was going to have him put out in the street—he grabbed me and tickled me until I promised to give him another week! Honest, you could have heard me yelling in the next country! I'm terribly tickled," she paused to enjoy this recollection. "Girls won't pay so much, but they do pay."

"Girls are more honest," Molly said.

"No such thing," contradicted Mrs. Potter. "They're more afraid of going to jail."

"You can't send anybody to jail for failing to pay rent," Brownell objected.

"No, but lots of girls don't know it. And those who do, they know they'll be disgraced if I throw 'em out and keep their clothes. Besides, they want the clothes."

The dessert was a dainty blanc mange with a bit of jelly floating on the top. Brownell and Molly ate it appreciatively, but Mrs. Potter thrust hers aside. "I've got to keep my figure if I go after that—what's his name?"

"Frazier," said Molly.

"Frazier?" repeated Mrs. Potter thoughtfully. "Mrs. Frazier! Still, I don't suppose I need to worry about the name. If he sees me once he'll run—especially if I make it him."

She retired to the kitchen, where she began to wash the dishes, which Molly brought her from the dining room.

Before they were done the bell rang from the hall below, and Mary Holmquist announced through the house telephone that she was coming up.

"Hello, Sweden," Brownell greeted her.

Molly, however, threw her arms around the visitor and said: "You poor thing!"

The pretty blonde's eyes were red and swollen, and her lips had that hoarseness that comes to women in grief.

"What's wrong?" Molly pursued.

"I'm in awful trouble," Mary said, sinking to the bright yellow couch that stood beneath the window. Molly sat beside her and Brownell stood in front, his hands deep in his pockets. "I haven't anybody to help me!"

She took out her wet handkerchief and twisted it around her finger.

"Please tell me," Molly urged, putting her arm around the girl's neck.

"Listen, did you tell me that Bob—Mr. Brownell—I mean—got an inheritance?"

"Not exactly. His father got one and gave Bob half of it. What?"

"Have you spent it—spent it all?"

"No, only part of it," Brownell said. "Was it lots of money?"

Little Sweden evidently was bringing herself to the point.

"Not such a terrible lot," said Molly, cautiously. She drew away a trifle.

"Listen, if I tell you truly that Bob—Mr. Brownell—would you—would you help?"

"You bet we'll help," said the bridegroom. "Spill the beans!"

Molly cast a warning glance at him which he failed to see.

"Well—can you lend me five hundred dollars?" Mary Holmquist asked, her eyes seeking Molly's and then Brownell's, in entreaty.

"Why—Brownell and Molly said the word together. Then Molly continued: "We spent a lot for our furniture. I haven't got quite five hundred."

"Oh!" The girl covered her face with her hands. "I need five hundred! It's got to be five hundred!" The words were choking her, and she pressed her fingers upon her throat. "But maybe four hundred would help. Honest, I wouldn't come to you if I didn't need it. I wouldn't—I wouldn't!" Her head went down on the new satin pillow and her shoulders shook with grief.

Mrs. Potter had come to the door during this conversation and was listening silently.

"What's the money for?" she demanded.

This new voice startled the little blonde, and she turned her face. "I dare not tell," she choked.

"Can't borrow from a bank without telling what it's for," pronounced Mrs. Potter. "Sit up and tell the story. We won't tell the police."

"Police!" Mary Holmquist's eyes widened with fear as she almost shrieked the word. "Who told you?"

"Come ahead—we're waiting," the older woman said. "What have you been doing?"

"Nothing. I didn't do anything." The girl flung out her arms. "I never knew."

She shuddered, her chin quivering.

"You know, I'm married," she said.

CHAPTER XXVI

Molly clasped her hands, her grey eyes wide.

"Married!" she echoed.

"Married!" said Mrs. Potter. "I see! So that's what's the trouble." She turned to Brownell. "Who is this girl, anyhow?"

"Oh, I'm so sorry," Molly said. "Mrs. Potter, this is my friend Miss Holmquist. She's one of the girls down at the office."

Neither little Sweden nor the older woman paid the slightest heed to this introduction, the blonde because she was so lost in her own troubles, Mrs. Potter because she was occupied with a critical inspection of Mary.

From the fair, drooping head to the neatly shod feet.

"Married!" Mrs. Potter said again. "But why the five hundred dollars? What do you want it for?"

"Who is he?" Molly wanted to know. "Is it the fellow with the little mustache?"

Mary got to her feet and went to the bathroom, where they could see her through the open door, splashing cold water on her face. Somewhat reall about it. It's a girl named Bowditch or something like that—she's married a bum."

At this moment it was necessary for her to kick out behind to rid herself of the clutching hands of little Sweden. The girl, still upon the floor, was pulling frantically at Mrs. Potter's legs in an effort to draw her away from the telephone.

"Well, it's something you've got to tend to," the woman resumed. "You're a man, aren't you? This girl's crying herself sick right now. I tell you it makes no difference who I am."

You got on your hat and come right up to Brownell's apartment—he's the one who married another girl from your place. The blonde's up here now. She needs somebody with brains to help her—you've got brains, haven't you? Yes, come now. She'll try to get away, but I'll keep her."

She hung up the receiver without saying goodbye. "That's the way to do things," she said with satisfaction, turning to Molly and Brownell. "If you don't know what to do yourself, get somebody who will know."

"You've got me fired," mourned little Sweden, from the centre of the rug.

"I don't think he'll fire you, but if he does—it's better to take your troubles all in a bunch," Mrs. Potter went to the closet and took her coat and hat. "I'll stay right here to watch you until this fellow comes."

"Why are you going then?" asked Brownell.

"How'm I going to make impression on a new beau with this outfit?" retorted Mrs. Potter, indicating her worn skirt and shabby shoes. "Soon as I hear him ring, I'll duck out the back way."

The resolute lady waited with her coat across her knees, her hat a trifle askew upon her greying hair, erect and silent during the forty minutes before Mr. Frazier came. The others talked a little, disjointedly, but Mrs. Potter kept her lips tightly closed and her chin high, with a general air of disapproval.

When Molly answered the call-bell, and pressed the button that opened the front door, the older woman swept from the room. Instead of going down the back stairs, however, she loitered in the hall until Mr. Frazier appeared. Then she strode past him, and hurried down the front steps.

"I judge," said the man as he shook hands with Molly and Brownell, "that the angry lady who just went by was the one who called me up."

"She was," Molly said, "but she wouldn't stay to meet you."

His attention turned to Mary Holmquist. She had gathered herself from the floor and was standing timidly in a corner, watching him as he came toward her.

With a little smile he took her by the hand, and led her to a chair. "Now tell me about it," he said, sitting down.

She repeated her story. The other bride and Brownell listened from the couch.

OTTAWA MAN LEAVES
$3,000,000 ESTATE

British Columbia Probate of
W. Y. Soper Will Revealed

An estate of $3,932,460 was left by Warren Young Soper, well-known Ottawa capitalist, who died on May at his home, Lornado, Rockcliffe Park, near Ottawa. Application for revealing the probate in British Columbia, where he has an estate of $5,000, was made to Mr. Justice Morrison in Supreme Court Chambers by Gordon Campbell yesterday.

Mr. Soper leaves $50,000 a year to his wife for the rest of her life, and after a few other bequests the remainder of the estate goes to his three sons and one daughter, with the whole estate going to them on the death of the mother.

He leaves $50,000 to his nephew, Dr. Warren Lyman Soper and $25,000 to his wife's companion, Lillian J. Newman. To each member of his household at the time of his death he leaves $200.
